Village House in Alozaina

This attractive village house has many unique features which make it a must see for anyone wanting to buy a property in this village. As you enter the house you walk in to a good size lounge which is bright and airy. Just off the lounge is the dining room, a feature that is unusual to find in a village house. Also located on this floor are a fully fitted bathroom and kitchen. There is also access out to a small patio area and to an additional out building which could be converted to a small guest apartment. On the first floor are two good-sized double bedrooms, one of which has doors that lead out to a small sun terrace from which the main roof terrace is accessed. The views from this main sun terrace are spectacular.
